RAILROAD MATTERS .- Please publish the following article on Railroad Matters, from the SEVERAL CITIZENS.

"We hear in various ways that the attention of the Legislature of Virginia is now called to the above subject. In view of the the said Master to publish for four successive fact that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company is creeping up the Valley of Virginis, in order to ultimately take travel and in lieu of personal service upon the parties infreight to Baltimore, and away from Lynchburg, Richmond, and Nortolk toward tide water on the east; and around Alexandria, Georgetown, and Washington at the head of of tide water at the northeast, in the general the 20th day of February, 1867, at my office in direction of Baltimore; all the cities above the city of Alexandria, when and where I sha! named have a direct and vital interest in the proceed to execute the said decree.

W. C. YEATON, legislation at Richmond. It is supposed to be the policy of the State of Virginia to build up her own cities. For that purpose, as we have ever understood it, her present railway system was adopted. But if the Baltimore and Ohio railway management is to succeed finally in the furtive and circuitous policy that it is gradually effecting and developing, like a hidden but adwill become tributary to Baltimore. This is, to some extent, an accomplished fact now, so far as the Orange and Alexandria railroad is concerned, since that the latter is said to be as that freight over it bound for Baltimore costs but a trifle after leaving Alexandria, such change in this respect was understood to have been made as that all costs for freight over the Orange and Alexandria were thereafter charged so as to be according to distance, except such as started from Lynchburg. Herein we think there should be investigation by the Legislature at Richmond. It is now said that freights north of Alexandria, except as subjected to charge between that city and Washington over the present railway, pay but a trifle on the Washington branch of forty miles to Baltibe regarded by them as a suitable railroad bridge, of a mile in length, near the present Long Bridge. Then, again, there would be uncertainties as to the action of Congress about transits at all by steam through the streets of Washington, close to the Capitol. For these reasons it is stated that the object of getting authority at Richmond for constructing a railwy along the bank of the Chesapeake of this county. A copy teste.

J. TACEY, Clerk. and Obio canal, and across the aqueduct at Georgetown, is to form such an indissoluble link between the Orange and Alexandria road and the Baltimore and Obio railroad, that whatever may be the feelings or interests of two roads named, who can then snap their fingers at any and all parties. This object may more. If this be so, then the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, in order to help for the latter to purchase it, and make it part and parcel of their own property, would entail ultimately very heavy expenditures for stations, tunnels, roadways, and also all for what would limitations, be given at Richmond as now asked, because a connection can be then had with the lateral road to Georgetown from the valley of Virginia, (intersecting, also, the Louloun and Hampshire road,) which is now proat Richmond, as we suppose.

We have to ask of the authorities of all kinds at Richmond to look well to their ways if they would protect their own cities- particu larly Alexandria-whether they care for Wa-hington and Georgetown or not. The railway system of Northern Virginia and the upper portion of the Valley was designed for the benefit of Alexandria. What benefits it benefits Washington and Georgetown. It is vital to the interests of all of them that there shall be no such combination of companies as that they newspaper published in the city of Alexandria, may be prejudiced, or destroyed rather, by such differential rates for treight and passage as that through Southern freight to Baltimore will be little or no more, or perhaps not as much, as to Alexandria or Washington and Georgetown. All franchises should be conditioned to cease un less rates for freight shall be according to disasked of the Legislature at Richmond.'
